NORWESTER

THE YEAR BOOK
OF
NORTHWESTERN HIGH SCHOOL
DETROIT · MICHIGAN

VOL. 16 1930

DEDICATION

To our teachers for their patient efforts in behalf of our learning, for the hours of special instruction, for their interest in our activities, for their companionship and their part in all our victories, we the members of the senior class, dedicate this sixteenth editon of the NORWESTER.

PREFACE

The NORWESTER staff has enjoyed its extended efforts to compile a pictorial record of the year's activities at Northwestern High School. In addition to the loyalty that a Northwestern student cannot help but possess, the staff, after keeping in close contact with the school's achievements, has acquired a boundless enthusiasm and a profound admiration for Northwestern. It has been the constant purpose of the staff to transmit that enthusiasm to the following pages.

To the Faculty

When all brute man could feed his stirring mind
  Was what his eyes perceived or he had felt—
The thoughts that stripped his beasthood off still dwelt
  In pre-birth night. But when his life entwined
With other lives, he found himself a Man.
  Then many trod as one, with lasting trace,
On Ways where years the single tracks erase.
  And what for ages men alone began,
The multitude erects—the House of Thought.
  There is, for all who care, a place to fill—
For they with truth give strength and they with skill
  Make fair. But men who build must first be taught.
How strong the house is reared depends, at last,
  On how men grasp the lessons of the past.

The enrollment in September, 1929, was 4,262, and in February, 1930, 4,242. There were 216 students graduated from Northwestern in the class of January, 1930. The June class will graduate 467 students. Of this number, approximately two-thirds have entered higher institutions of learning to further satisfy their quest for knowledge.

During the month of October, Northwestern purchased 40 acres of land in the Detroit News Reforestation Plan.

Northwestern's three publications, the NORWESTER, Odds and Ends, and Colt brought new laurels to Northwestern when the Michigan Inter-scholastic Press Association conferring at Ann Arbor, awarded Northwestern the "Sweepstakes Cup." This award is made to the school gaining the greatest number of points through its publications. Northwestern having placed first, three times, permanently keeps the Chimes Cup.

On November 15, 16 and 18 Northwestern's youthful talent submitted Vanity Fair. Thirty-three acts were given, seevn of which remained in the final contest. The entire musical comedy was original, and was written for the occasion. Much of the music was composed and all of it was arranged by the artists.

The graduation class of January completed its social functions with the commencement banquet held in the school lunch room, January 22.

In February, The Romantic Age, written by A. A. Milne, was presented. The play, produced under the direction of Miss Julia E. Gettemy, introduced a new feature, that of a matinee given in addition to the three regular evening performances.

The year's debating was most successful, Northwestern winning city championship and being second in state, only to Clawson, by whom we were defeated in the debate finals held at Ann Arbor.

In sports, Northwestern won more than half of all events entered into. Records set by us number more than all other city high schools together.

To the January Class

The young are quick with love for things of Mind.
  Athirst for life, they come and the World gives dust
To quench their thirst; the ashes of souls to blind
  And blot their dreams. Young men must learn distrust
Of bitter minds whose faith in Man was slain
  By men; of them who weigh all things with scale
Of gold; and men who vibrate to one strain—
  The present note. Youth's faith in self is frail,
For all its talk, and needs the year's gift—strength.
  The somber-eyed and Gold-God spurners dare
Not heed the sneering old or doubt, at length,
  Shall brush with Death away what youth finds fair.
Let youth retain ideals: It is not meant
  To see through eyes of minds that pain has spent.

CELEBS

EACH semester the Student Council selects from the graduating class a number of people who, by their outstanding work in school, club and house activities, have earned the title of celebrities. The title is won entirely by merit and is considered one of the highest honors that the school can bestow upon the members of the class. The record of each candidate is read before the Student Council and then a vote is taken. The number of celebs is determined by the size of the class; thus, there are six people chosen in January and ten in June.

To the June Class

Did Man out-grow the beast to wear serf's chain?
  Be free! Reject the tyranny of Art,
Of books, of Thought: for he who is all brain
  Lives half a life; who gives to words his heart
Becomes for men an alien thing; to toil
  Creatively, is but a higher phase
Of brutish round—to be mere fertile soil.
  Let Will to Strength and lust of gold give place
To joy in senses, thrill of health. Forget
  That stars and Earth and Man have candle-fates.
Take all you can out of Today and let
  Vast truths alone. Where mental straits
Are dim, thought's light on things, had best be turned,
  Whose full significance can be discerned.

Houses

The quick and dull meet here where tools of thought
  Are given them who shall be lords, some day,
Of men; where skill in mental things is taught
  With manhood but a few short years away,
They seek the means whose minds have dreamed of end:
  Who will tomorrow build with intellect,
The common plane of mastery transcend,
  Today, in scholarship. Who will direct
In later years the swelling streams of gold,
  While young display the seeds of mastership
That mark the potent man, the stern and bold.
  Thus all beloved by life attain, with slip
Of years, their fate. So here, where all are met,
  The young choose ways on which their lives are set.

HOUSES

MOUNT VERNON

THE symbol of Mt. Vernon House, the spinning wheel, which symbolizes "Industry," has been spinning busily during the past year through the untiring efforts of Miss Vyn and Mrs. Hirt.

The house has been rightfully proud of its swimming team which brought the inter-house cup to Mt. Vernon. Moreover, with Mahala Cornwell, Louise Crawford and Maude Bright on the hockey squad; Helen Curtis, Jane Cadwell, and Madeline Crawford on the swimming team; and with a large turnout for all of the house sports, Mt. Vernon feels that the girls have helped carry out the house motto, "A Sport for Every Girl."

However, athletics are not Mt. Vernon's only interest. Ruth Davenport, Dorothy Beasley, Martha Boyd and Doris Blum had leading parts in all of the musical productions; while Mahala Cornwell and Dolores Brown were featured in the 12A plays.

The house debating team had quite a successful year having participatied in the semi-finals. The chairmen, Louise Crispen and Helen Chase had a very able team composed of Eleanor Blum, Jeanne Brown and Winifred Busha, Affirmative, and Madelyn Coe, Grace Boman and Dorothy Cook, Negative. The coaches were Mrs. Bauers and Mrs. Ferris. The girls have kept up their social side with a Mt. Vernon-Pershing party, a 12B-12A party, and two Freshmen Frolics, all of which were very successful. Thus, the girls of Mt. Vernon have upheld their motto, "The Outcome Proves the Deed."

PERSHING HOUSE

THIS has been a year in which Pershing House has contributed much to the school. William Becman made the varsity debating team. Bill Dant and Allan Campbell were on the varisty football team. John Boden was captain of the varisty basketball team and Harry Curtis proved one of the fastest swimmers in the state. Harold Brown took a lead in the opera Serenade, and Ken Berkaw took an important part in The Romantc Age. Charles Courville was president of the January graduating class.

In the intra-mural affairs Pershing House was less fortunate. A victory over Marshall started the football season with a bang, but the tide turned, leaving Pershing high and dry. Although Pershing won individual swimming meets with Wilson and Roosevelt, she came out next to last in the all-house meet. Barnard, Anger, and J. Q. Adams were the star swimmers. Cooper, Balmer and Barrington made the track team, passing good. It was in basketball that Pershing's star rose. Every team came through with a long roll of victories. Due to a late start, the Pershing debaters had a string of bad luck. There can be no fault found with the team or with Jerome Choinski, the chairman. Altogether, this has been a year of achievement for Pershing House.

JOAN OF ARC

UNDER the guidance of Miss Suzanna A. Clough and with the splendid leadership of the house officers, Joan of Arc has completed another successful year. The officers were assisted by able committees headed by enthusiastic chairmen. The debating team, composed of Irene Demarest, Dorothy Doub, Barbara Herron, Dorothy Foege, Patricia Graham and Marion Frankford, while not entirely successful, put up a splendid fight in defense of the Yellow and White.

This year, Joan of Arc has had more individual athletic stars than successful house teams. Hockey, basketball, swimming and bowling championships were lost in spite of noble efforts. However, Janet Hawke, Loretta Glover, Marjorie Hedgecock and Alice DeCou starred on the school hockey team, while Ardis Gibson, Emma Grikscheit, Belva Fritch and Daisy Donald brought honor to the house by means of their swimming ability. Joan of Arc was well represented on the school golf team by Gerd Gamborg, and on the school basketball squad by Janet Hawke and Loretta Glover.

The social events of the year have been many. A "Get Acquainted Party" was given for the 9B class. A joint party with Marshall was a marked success due to the efforts of the combined social committees: Carolyn Hoffman, Dorothy Jane DeWees, Bob Hamilton and Thomas Hayden. Finally, a novel party, planned by Irene Foster, was enjoyed by the girls in March.

MARSHALL HOUSE

MARSHALL HOUSE under the excellent supervision of Mr. Munsell has maintained its reputation and has had a very successful year. Marshall House was very sorry to lose the services of Mr. Holmes, who was director of intra-mural athletics. However, Mr. Catherman took over the coaching with the result that an inexperienced football team won third place. The swimming team won the championship, with Bob Doran and Fred Finsterwald starring. The track team kept up the good work by placing second. In basketball Marshall House was very successful, placing four teams in the play-offs. The 9-A team reached the finals but was eliminated in the championship game. The tenth grade team won the school championship. Therefore, the house has hopes of retaining the intra-mural house shield which it has held for the last four years.

The Marshall House debating team composed of David Garrison, Marshall Glaser, Fred Gollbach, David Habif, David Hall, and Albert Friedman and coached by Mrs. Bovill and Miss Lehman, qualified for the semi-finals.

The house is well represented on the school teams: Edward Downs on the debating team; Robley Dunning, Jack Fundis, Charles Golinske and Harold Heyden on the football team; Fred Gruezke and Thad Dennis on the track team; Max Gurman, William Hammer and David Garrison on the tennis team; Otto Gutowsky on the basketball team; Raymon Goetzke and Frank Gregcr, golf team; John Hammer, president of the student council and Max Gurman on the Colt—Editor.

The social event of the year was a dance with Joan of Arc House. This was made possible through the efforts of the social committees of the two houses.

BETSY ROSS HOUSE

BETSY ROSS was able to accomplish much during the past year, not only because of the co-operation of all its members, but because of the untiring efforts of Miss Vera Fox. The possession of the coveted scholarship cup during the fall term is evidence of this co-operation.

Betsy Ross also had her full share of honors in the athletic field. The house hockey team and the second basketball team won the girl's championships, while the first team lost the championship by a narrow margin. The graderoom is proud of its many athletes on school teams: Bessie MacCracken, captain of the girls' hockey team, and Viola Jones and Josephine Lake, players; Margaret Mary Love, captain of the school golf team; and Ruth Kurtz and Jennie Irwin, outstanding members of the swimming team.

Dorothy Irwin, besides being chairman of the house debating team, has consoled the house for its loss of the debating cup by her splendid work on the school debating team. Several awards found their way to Betsy Ross, the attendance medal going to Irene Jones; the scholarship medal to Harriet Jennings, and the third prize in Vanity Fair to Florence McMann. The most notable achievement of the house committee is the acquisition of a beautiful reproduction, The Student, by Rembrant. The social events included a 9B-12A and a theatre party given for the 12A's by the 12B's.

ROOSEVELT HOUSE

THIS year Roosevelt House held up the high standards which have become traditional under the leadership of Mr. Jerome. In football Roosevelt, of course, won first place, although, by bad luck, it took only third in track and fourth in swimming. Making up its losses, Roosevelt then took a strong second place in basketball. The teams were ably coached by Mr. Maas, assisted by Mr. VanDyke, who was unable to devote his full time to the house because of his injured back.

Roosevelt contributed six stars to varsity football, George Huber, Bud Kyes, George Kinneunen, Floyd Johnson, William McClintock and Dan Lysett. To varsity basketball the house yielded Lafollet Leckner and Fred Jacobs. both high point men in several games. To varsity swimming Roosevelt gave Chuck McKinley, and to varsity track Captain Wesley Hurd, Norman Lawton, David Logan, Noel Maxam and George Huber. Roosevelt Debating Team came very close to getting into the semi-finals. However, in a special debate, Mount Vernon defeated the Roosevelt debaters. Both Lindsay and Litchfield were on the all-house team, which testifies to the calibre of Roosevelt debaters. Kenneth Jewel was chairman.

Members of Roosevelt House were active in other school affairs. Wesley Hurd was president of the June graduating class. Noel Maxam was the very romantic Prnice Gervase of The Romantic Age. Kenneth Jewel and Goddard Light took part in the opera Serenade.

CLARA BARTON HOUSE

CLARA BARTON has been greatly handicapped during the past year by changes made in the grade room principals. Miss Dorothy Roehm had been principal for one year when, at the beginning of the spring semester, she was transferred to Cooley High School as head of the Foreign Language department. Miss Rachel Newcomb, of the Mathematics Department, took her place as house principal. Miss Doris Cline, Miss Roehm's assistant, left in the middle of the fall term to accept a position as head of the Girls' Placement Bureau. Miss Cline was succeeded by Miss Hildegarde Beck.

The debating teams were partially triumphant this year in their encounters. The house is proud of Ruth Oppenheim who gained a place on the All-House Debating team. Other members of the teams were: Rosalie Resnik and Kathryn Robinson who with Ruth upheld the negative side, and Bettina Rightmire, Harriet Roberts, and Ruth Rabinowitz who upheld the affirmative.

The bowling championship banner has a prominent place in the graderoom. The winning team was composed of the following girls: Hazel Samuel, Gladys Panton, Marjorie Sellman, Irene Sary, Grace Schmidt, Esther Meyers, Helen Rabe, Eva Rockwell, Dorothy Prior, and Anne Pareimsky. With the exception of a 9B "Get Acquainted Party" sponsored by the seniors, there have been no large social gatherings. Lorraine Salot represented Northwestern in the National High School Orchestra. Phyllis Norton and Jane Saunders were chosen as R. O. T. C. sponsors.

WILSON HOUSE

UNDER the excellent leadership of Phil Schaupner and Don Sawyer and with the guiding hand of Mr. Sickley, Wilson House has completed a successful year. Wilson House is rightfully proud of its athletic record which was due to the house spirit and the expert coaching of Mr. Bishop and Mr. Weaver. In spite of the poor start in football, James Rickard and Hughes Peterson were named on the All-House team. In swimming Wilson House was close on the heels of the leaders, taking third place. Fred Mueller, Myron Rosenthal and Noble Peckham showed up well. In track, Wilson House placed high in both lightweight and heavyweight events. Raymond Roe and Earl Rheaume starred in their events. Wilson House qualified two teams in the basketball play-offs.

The debating team, composed of Bruff Olin, Maurice Rothstein, Gerald Phelan, Royal Peake, Milton Rabinowitz and George Perry won the championship by defeating the Jane Austen team. The coaches, Mr. Hulbert and Mr. Watkins, as well as the members of the team, deserve much credit for their success.

Wilson House has also maintained a high standard of scholarship. The house has been well represented on the varsity teams: Vaughan Pierce, Phil Schaupner, and Richard Palm on the football squad; Hugh Rea, Tony Rachlin and Dolphus Nelson on the basketball team; Earl Rheaume on the Cross country team, and Raymond Roe, Sidney Moore on the track team.

JANE AUSTEN

THE girls of Jane Austen house have once more exemplified their motto, "Nothing Great Was Ever Achieved Without Enthusiasm," by their achievement during the past year under the capable guidance of Mrs. Watson. Ethel Sm th, captain, with Eileen Wood, Louise Simms, Betty Tinsely, Fannie Wexler and Bertha Waggenheim, successfully defended the basketball championship, while the first three placed on the All-House team. Moreover, Jane Austen placed Louise Simms, Suzzanne Shenk and Muir Williams on the school basketball team; Eileen Wood, Muir Williams and Margaret Wickam on the hockey team; Ethel Smith, Eileen Wood, Georgia Waters and Louise Shafer on the swimming team.

The house has been exceptionally fortunate in debating this year. Besides having Roberta Thompson on the school team, the house team, composed of Dorothy Tryon, Sylvia Sorola and Reunelle White, Negative, and Maefred Sheppard, Martha Wolski and Elizabeth Trattner, Affirmative, with Madeline Wohlgemuth, chairman, and ably coached by Miss Covey and Mr. Keenan, brought the silver plaque to the house by being runner-up to Wilson.

Socially the year has been very successful. One party was given for all new members and house officers; later a 12B-12A party was given, and also a 12A Mother and Daughter tea. The Jane Austen girls have continued their policy of service by donating a drinking fountain to the school which was designed in the art department by Jane Austen students.

LINCOLN HOUSE

IN LINCOLN HOUSE, when some team has won, they are wont to say, "Open the windows; now YELL, so Marshall can hear." There were plenty of occasions for this during the past year. Lincoln's victories made the house second in house football, second in house basketball, and first in house swimming, and first in house track. This superiority was due equally to the excellent coaching of Mr. Schwall and to the inherent talent of Lincoln House men. The house debate team met with difficulties, but its only veteran, Stanley Taylor, won a place of glory on the all-house team. Robert Ward was chairman, and Mr. Sisson, Mr. Addington and Mr. Dean coached the team.

The remarkable feature of the year was the ardor with which S. Velick and D. Willie made the Lincoln House Anti-Vice Association and Society for the Prevention of Homework an important factor in school affairs. This organization (a) succeeded in reducing the amount of homework to which Lincoln men are subjected, and (b) provided a bureau for the dissemination of information concerning examinations.

Lincoln House boasts of the only house publication in the city, The Lincoln House Record. This year it is being edited by Sidney Velick. In addition, the house boasts of Harry Sieloff, captain of the football team; Willis Ward, all-city end and holder of the World's Interscholastic High Jump Record; and Clifford Wolfe, leading man in the 12A play. The house grieves at the tragic death of its secretary, Robert Strickroot.

Organizations

Birth sows in us some seeds that root and thrive,
  And some that find dead soil. It is but wise
To work to keep the fitter growth alive.
  Yet strength-enamored youth should not despise
The slighter talents: Thought-devotees should
  Seek out the life-remolding, thrilling sports
And join the full-formed, healthy brotherhood.
  The bitter-lipped, whose self-turned view distorts
Their weight of other men, should strive to feel
  A pleasure in the human contacts free
From mental clash, for social walks conceal
  A world of undreamed values and the key
To happiness. Nor is it strange men find,
  As Nature meant, no growth except through kind.

NORWESTER STAFF

EDWARD BLOSS
Business Mgr.

The NORWESTER has always been the wandering waif of the school. Without a continuous staff, without a permanent office, it has been deprived of the pleasure of heirlooms and traditions. This year, the NORWESTER has carried on business in an ex-chemistry lecture room that is fitted with running water to moisten postage stamps and gas for abused and shop worn editors. Fifteen years ago when the NORWESTER was founded, the main purpose was to encourage nascent literary talent. When the Odds and Ends and Colt took over the literary side, the NORWESTER began striving to present a pictorial record of the year's activities. The only year that the NORWESTER failed to appear was in 1918 when war conditions made publication impossible. This year the staff was completely reorganized. It had already gone through several stages of development. The number of members was cut down to a minimum; every possible merging of positions was made. As a result, the staff members were more efficient and at the same time were in closer contact with the general progress of the work than in previous years. In addition to the change in staff, Miss Anna May Hughes became the new faculty advisor. Mr. Carl Stoll, Miss Florecne Guenther and Mr. Boltz continued their positions as advisors of business and art respectively.

ODDS and ENDS STAFF

Noel Maxam
Editor Spring

It is in the glossy pages of the Odds and Ends that Northwestern's budding young authors first break into print. The stories, essays, and poems of the Odds and Ends have entertained a vast reading public for seven years. Every issue since the first in 1923 has shown improvement. In January, 1927, Miss Edith Tilton took the faculty helm and swiftly guided the magazine into national prominence. This year the Odds and Ends calmly annexed an All-American rating as one of the four best high school literary magazines in the United States. The Odds and Ends is now the mecca of good English students. It publishes everything from travel articles to epigrams. In times of prosperity and literary activity it vaunts seventy-two pages, and in normal times it averages around forty-eight pages. A large staff of high pressure salesmen infest Detroit business circles for advertising. More salesmen impress upon the school the intrinsic merit of the magazine. The Odds and Ends office is a veritable hive of activity. Proof readers, copy readers, typists, department editors, business managers, and faculty advisors vie with each other in work accomplished.

THE COLT STAFF

This winter, at the annual meeting of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, the Colt, Northwestern's bi-weekly newspaper, was awarded first place, class A, in the national contest. The award was the climax of a period of intensive development and innovation. The first issue of the Colt was published in 1917. The first staff consisted of only six members. The alumni, as well as the student body, was urged to contribute to the paper. As time went on, the Colt improved steadily in quality and size. For several years it had been close to an All-American rating. Then in the Fall of this year a change was made. The paper was put into the hands of the journalism class, who accomplished the cherished ambitions of the past. The new Colt contained enough personal columns of good natured nonsense to please the most exacting student body. Ralph Frank's cartoons graced the feature page. Under "Mushy" Gurman and Margaret Ferguson during the first semester, and under Alice Steele, Gilbert Anderson and Emma Grikscheit the second semester, the eagle-eyed, repertorial staff allowed nothing to escape it during the school year.

STUDENT COUNCIL

NORTHWESTERN'S Student Council is made up of grade room representatives, who were formally installed in office at a newly instituted service this fall. One of their first activities each semester is the management of the Used Book Store and again in the middle of the semester English Classics are sold. The Student Council Dances are always enthusiastically attended by the student body. The 9 B's are welcomed and oriented to Northwestern through the 9 B Mixer, sponsored by the Council who present the school activities to the bewildered freshmen. An all activity bulletin board which was presented by the Girls' Affiliated Club is kept up-to-date by this group also. The Red and Gray Hand Book, an endless service of information, is its yearly publication. As the Council aims to further every worthy phase of school life, it encourages athletics through the sale of season tickets for the football and basketball seasons. The Northwestern banners are another undertaking that helped to create school spirit. It also sponsors a club merchandise sale. In order that it may come into more intimate contact with the student body suggestion boxes are placed about the school and on certain days a council member may be interviewed in the halls. Through the council Northwestern was one of the first schools of the city to co-operate with the Detroit News in its Reforestation program for Michigan, by contributing $100.00. Scholarship is further rewarded by a special cum laude seal for the honor diplomas, while further recognition is given to all-round students who are chosen as celebs by the council.

DEBATING

Northwestern, with thirteen points to its credit, won the city debate series but the title was waived because the one point margin over six other Detroit teams was not considered sufficient. The subject of debate throughout the season was: "Resolved that a judge or a board of judges should be substituted for the jury in all trials in the state and municipal courts of Michigan." The teams engaged in ten debates and lost only two of them; to Central early in the city series and to Clawson later in the state series. Formality in delivery and organization was the outstanding characteristic of the team and the judges used it as the basis for most of the favorable decisions. Both losses were to teams that spoke more or less informally; and the decididing factor was the temperament of the judges.

Northwestern entered the state series as one of the 64 schcols left of the original 265. There were seven regular debaters during the first half of the season nda no two teams were exactly alike. Roberta Thompson, Glen Howell, William Beeman and William Mouser graduated with the January class, leaving only three debaters, Dorothy Irwin, Edward Downs and Charles Rogers to bear the brunt of the six state eliminations. Although the three survivors had never debated together before, the critic judge, Professor

Having demonstrated its ability to win both sides of the argument, the team assumed the affirmative side again, and beat St. Anthony, the state parochial champions. On April 11, Cheboygan, last year's state champions came down to Detroit and went home with a 3 to 0 defeat. Prof. J. K. Pollock, Principal F. J. DuFrain, and Superintendent M. R. Keyworth were the judges The state final debate was held at Hill Auditorium, Ann Arbor, on April 25. Clawson upheld the negative side and was given the decision by the judges. As a result of the state series, Northwestern won its fourth Free Press wall plaque and its second state finalist trophy. Dorothy Irwin, Charles Rogers and Edward Downs received watches from the Detroit Free Press as testimonials of individual merit in debating. A victory over Clawson would have made Northwestern the first school to win the state debating championship twice. Edward Downs will be back next year to form the nucleus of a team. Mrs. Ruth Huston Whipple who has coached most of Northwestern's successful debating will coach the team next year.

CONTEST WINNERS

NORTHWESTERN'S local oratorical contest was held early in March, 1930. Out of six contestants Royal Peake was awarded first place for his oration on "The Menace of War." Chalmers Ayers, who spoke on the "Life of Theodore Roosevelt" took second place. In the sub-district contest at Redford, Royal Peake was defeated.

The local declamation contest for ninth and tenth graders was also held early in March. There were forty entrants. After three elimination contests, Gordon Shapiro, who declaimed Wendell Phillips', "Touissaint L'Overture" was awarded first place. Second honors went to Beatrice Oppenheim. In the sub-district contest, Cooley High School took first place. Owing to a misunderstanding there was no extemporaneous speaking contest held. Northwestern's last oratorical victory was in 1925 when Earl Gremmel won the city championship and placed third in state competition. No Detroit speaker has reached state competition since then.

This year Northwestern continued its series of victories in the state chemistry Essay Contest when Sidney Velick and Harriet Jennings won first and second place respectively, the verdict having been vice-versa the preceding year. In the Traffic Essay Contest sponsored by the Detroit Police Department, Roberta Stockwell won second place in city wide competition.

As a result of the preliminary contests, Wilson, Jane Austen, Marshall and Mount Vernon competed in the semi-finals; Wilson and Jane Austen tied in the finals, the decision going to Wilson House, because of its previous record, the first boys' house to win the honor. Presentation of awards was made at the Debating Banquet.

RESERVED OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS

ONLY Kipling could properly describe and appreciate the R. O. T. C. Anyone who has heard the snapping, staccato commands and has seen the prompt, intelligent obedience cannot doubt the value of the R. O. T. C. The R. O. T. C. was organized in 1919. It was created with the purpose of giving students fine carriage and good physique. Two years' intensive training whips the men into fine military form. The Northwestern Unit has won national honors repeatedly, and is one of Detroit's best groups. The Unit always makes a fine showing on the Field Day, held annually, when the nine units of the city vie for rating as City Honor High School. This excellence is due, not to luck, but to the fine spirit of the men, the work of their officers, and the ability of their instructor. The most credit is due to Sergeant John Tkacik, U. S. A.; Sergeant Tkacik has drilled Northwestern's R. O. T. C. ever since its organization, and has consistently turned out men of the highest type. The officers at present are: Captain Martin Stefanac, Battalion Adjutant Goldberg, First Lieutenant Smith, First Lieutenant Kiedan, Second Lieutenant Farkas, and First Sergeant Olin. The Northwestern Rifle Team has held the city championship for seven consecutive years. Two cups are permanetly in Northwestern's possession and the team has won one leg on the third cup. In 1925 Northwestern won the National Intercollegiate Rifle Matches. The team which won city championship in 1930, was composed of Lieutenant Colonel Ralph Talbot, (team captain); Captain Stefanac, Lieutenant Kiedan, Lieutenant Zumberg, and Sergeant Kerns. The members of the Hearst Trophy team are: Captain Martin Stefanac (team captain), Lieutenant Kiedan, Lieuteant Goldberg, Sergeant Ways, Sergeant Kerns. Captain Martin Stefanac and Lieutenant Kiedan will represent Northwestern for the Two-Man team city championship, Field Day.

This year the rifle team again brought Northwestern's R. O. T. C. into national prominence by taking second place in the National William Randolph Hearst Trophy Contest. There were 149 schools in the competition. Many of them, such as Culver and Kemper, were leading military acadamies. Northwestern is the first Michigan school to gain such an honor.

Fine Arts

There is in Man expression's need to hold
The potency of things he feels and sees
Which dull the senses and themselves grow cold
When locked within the mind. Through Art Man frees
From selfish grasp sensation's wealth: Stream's pace,
Bird's song, star's drift, breath's measure, pulse's beat—
All point to rhythm's rule in life, embrace
The essence of the Dance and Music. Sweet
Things are too often transient—gone while still
We merely taste of them: applause, a passing girl's
Shy smile, the rare magnetic moment's thrill.
And Art and Drama steal from Time these pearls.
Thus Man, in passing, takes from years choice fruit
Which love keeps fresh and age cannot pollute.

VANITY FAIR

Vanity Fair Chorus

Vanity Fair was a rather novel departure in high school productions. Originally intended to be a vaudeville show, the number of acts entered was of such quality that the seven best acts were selected and a plot written around them. A musical comedy was the result. The first scene was laid in the Grand Central Station, New York, where the first plot thickened and a red cap chorus did its stuff. Next was an unusual winter scene at Banff, Canada. Following that, the scene shifted to a small town grocery store in Arkansas where a hick band performed; and then down to New Orleans, where an amusing rubberneck tour took place, a brilliant Spanish dance, a chorus, and a grand finale. There were more than one hundred players in the cast. A board of judges awarded prizes for the best acts. Sherril Smith was first with a catchy xylophone solo. Doris Sampson in a song and dance act took second prize; Elizabeth McMann, a dashing Spanigh dancer, won the third prize.

THE ROMANTIC AGE

January 12A Class Play

The Romantic Age, by A. A. Milne, was the first dramatic return of the 1929-1930 season. Owing to a series of annoying but inevitable delays, it did not get on the boards until February 14 and 15. But it was worth waiting for. It was the most important play from a literary and dramatic point of view that has been given at Northwestern in several years.

The play was unusually well performed. Dolores Brown was adequately light-headed for a girl lost in day dreams. Noel Maxam was enthusiastically gallant as the hero. Ellsworth Mac Dowell's deep bass voice and willowy figure were perfect for the part of the old man, and Eugene Jackson, who ate cheese and spoke at the same time, played his part to perfection.

The settings and advertising posters were taken care of by Mr. J. K. Boltz, and the music by Mr. Roy Miller. The business end of the production was managed by the Hi-Y Club under Mr. Albert Hollinger's supervision. Miss Julia E. Gettemy directed the production.

WHAT ANN BROUGHT HOME

June, 1930, Class Play

What Ann Brought Home, 1930 June class play, was presented on the evenings of May 10 and 12 under the direction of Miss Julia Gettemy. It is a rollicking farce-comedy dealing with a middle class family in a village in Northern Indiana. There are three daughters in the family, two of whom have suitors; there is an uncle—an enterprising business man—and the father and mother.

The scene is laid in the living room of the Bennett house where Mr. and Mrs. Bennett are found on a summer evening. The oldest daughter, Anne, has gone to a neighboring town on an errand and returns with a husband. The husband, Dudley, is an impractical fellow and a dreamer. The play settles around his imcompatibility with the Bennett family. He finally wins their good graces by transacting a business deal which makes the whole family wealthy.

There is much human interest in the play, and many amusing characters, which account for its successful run on Broadway in 1928, and similar successes wherever it has been produced.

SERENADE

THIS year being one of Victor Herbert revivals, Northwestern entered into the spirit of the movement. The music department presented the fifteenth annual opera, The Serenade, with great success. In 1920 this same opera was performed before six enthusiastic audiences in the new Northwestern auditorium. This year the opera was no less successful, inaugurating a policy of Saturday matinees instead of the previous Monday performances.

The curtain rises on the office of the Royal Madrid Brigandage Association where the bandits are contemplating an attack on the Duke of Santa Cruz. The Duke in the meantime, is trying to keep his ward, Dolores, away from her adorers. Alvarado, a baritone of the Madrid Opera, has become her postillion in order to be near her. The Duke mistakes an old opera singer, Colombo, for the lover of his Dolores and imprisons him, placing Dolores in the Convent of St. Ursula. Gomez, a tailor, who hopes to win Dolores by a song, seeks refuge from the Duke in the convent. Dolores escapes with Alvarado and the Duke is forced by Romero, the bandit chief, to consent to their marriage. Yvonne, a dancer, who has been seeking to win Alvarado frees her father, Colombo, and then gives her hand to Lopez, lieutenant of the brigands.

Under the direction of Miss Lowden and through the dramatic assistance of Mr. Young, from New York, the opera was one of the finest ever presented at Northwestern.

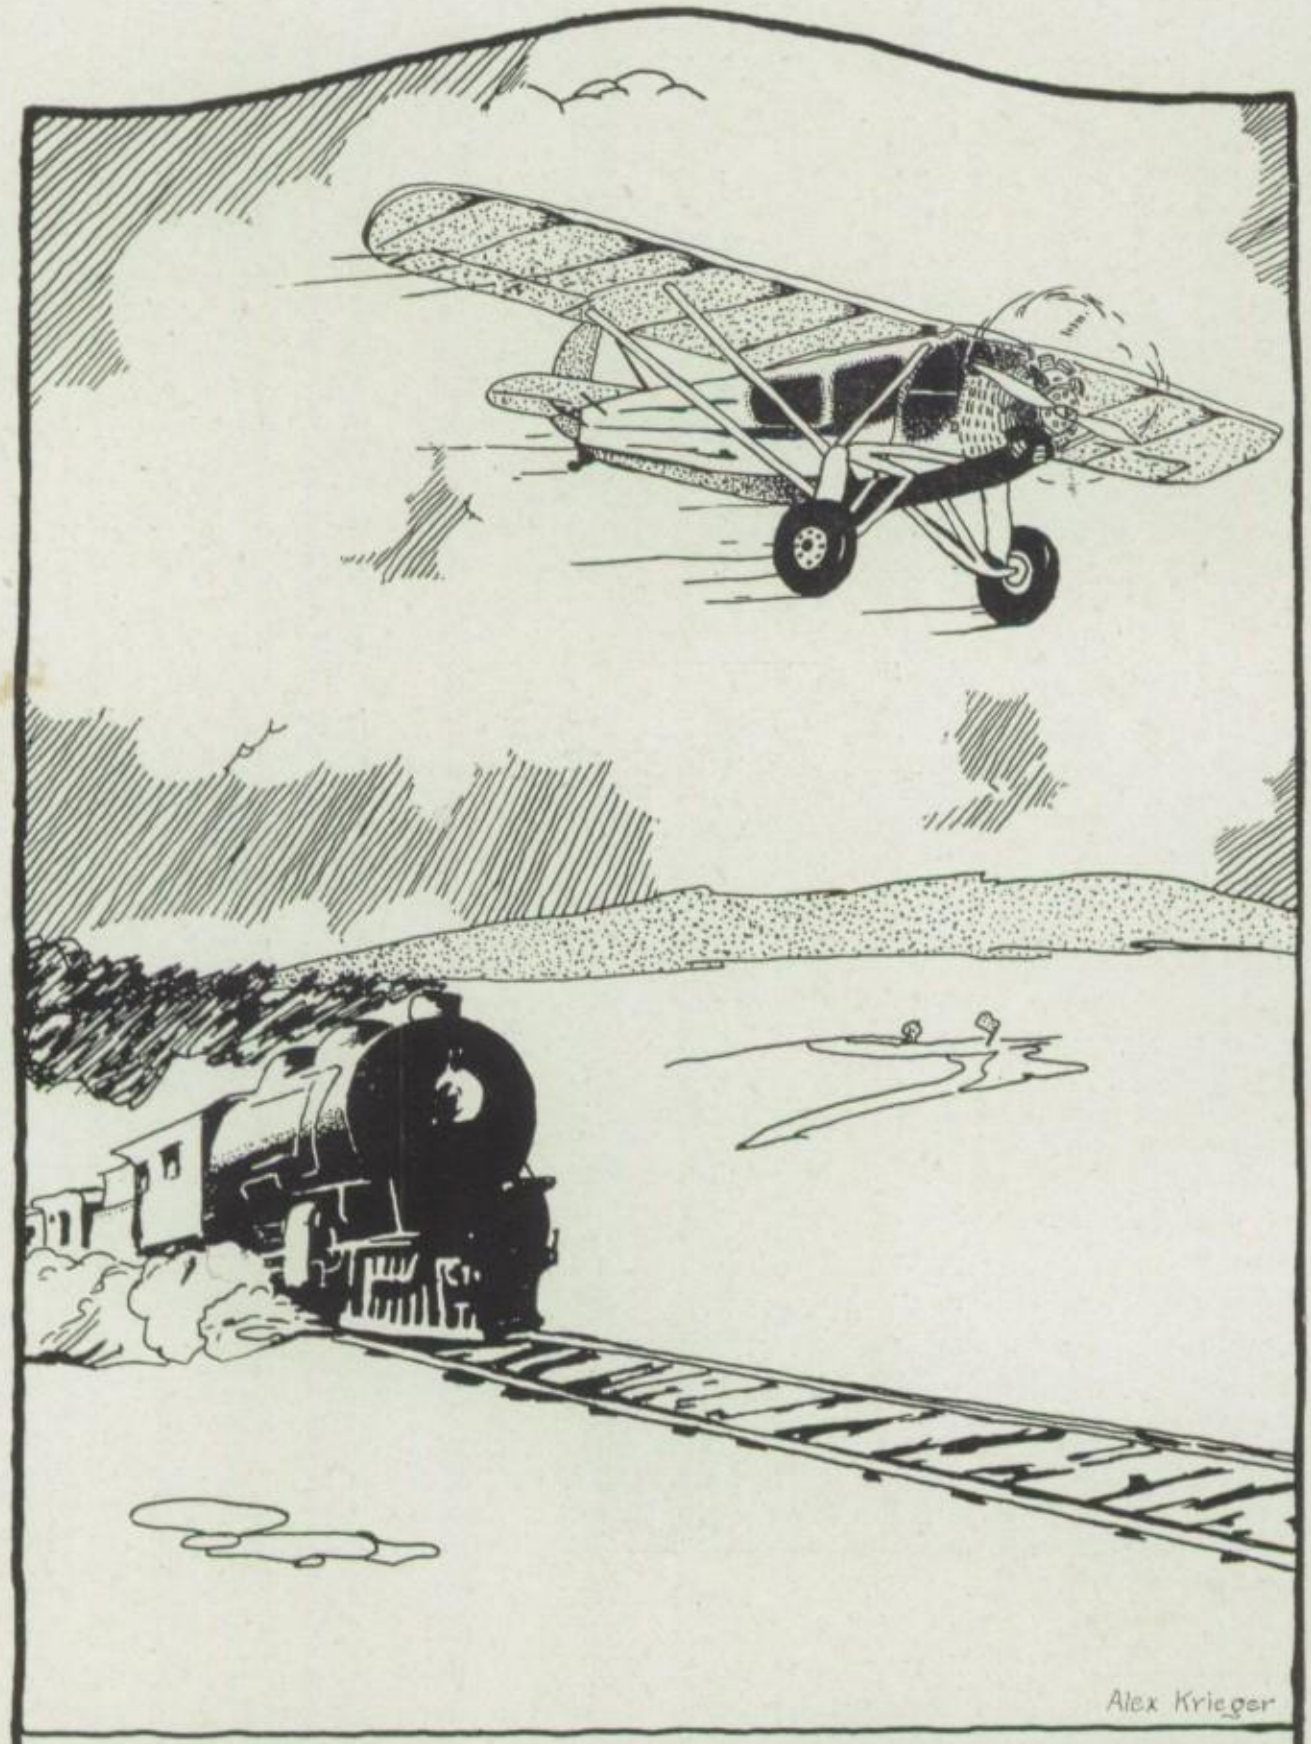
Athletics

What Ages watched the human body form!
  Saw slime move up the scale, grow lungs, desert
The swamp, reach massive size, then change with storm
  And ice-age cold—its ugliness convert
Into a clean-limbed type. And did they note
  The brain, which only came to strength when Man
Stood straight, and to whose service men devote
  The love once body got? What folly can
Men not conceive? This change of masters brings
  New wages: health passed by for intellect.
Thus thought, when sent aloft on weakened wings,
  Soon wearies, reels, and flutters down unchecked.
Lay siege on health, of all men's loves the best,
  And capture thought and joy, among the rest.



SPORTS

ATHLETIC HISTORY

A MATHEMATICIAN has figured out that it would take more than a hundred years for the Detroit high schools to catch up with Northwestern's record. Athletics at Northwestern began in 1914. The football team started by playing only freshmen and reserve teams from other schools and, despite this, lost most of its games. The next year, however, Northwestern stepped out into high society and took on varsity teams, winning all but one of the games. Since then the Colts have won seven city football championships. They started a winning streak in 1924 and took five city championships in a row. They have been state champions twice, sharing the honor with Muskegon in 1927. Among the outstanding players that Northwestern has produced are the two Heston brothers who are showing promise at the University of Michigan, "Snitz" Ross and John Hackett who are starring on the U. of D., team, and Ernie McCoy and Marshall Boden who won their football letters at U. of M.

Mr. Marvis

Northwestern has also taken a lion's chare of basketball titles, having won seven city championships and four state championships. The most outstanding basketball player ever to play on a Colt team is Ernie McCoy, who captained the 1925 team and later went to Michigan where he led the 1928 team to the big ten championship. The Colts also lay claim to what is generally accepted as the outstanding basketball team ever developed in Michigan, the 1928 champions.

Northwestern swimming teams have annexed eight of the ten annual city championships thus far held. Dick Spindle, '25, captained the University of Michigan big ten champions of '29. Durr, Boldt and Walker also swam for Michigan. The outstanding swimmer at Michigan State this year is Horace Craig, captain of a Colt city, state and Midwest championship swimming team.

Northwestern's trump card has always been track, in which fifteen city titles, seven state titles and six Midwest titles have been won since 1916. It is not necessary to delve deep back into the past to find its stars, although in 1924 the half mile relay team broke the world's interscholastic record. Practically every city record is held by a Northwestern man. This year's team alone boast of Willis Ward, the World Interscholastic High Jump champion, Wesley Hurd, the holder of the Mid-West mile record, and Raymond Roe and Noel Maxam holders of the city half-mile and pole vault records respectively. One of the most outstanding weight men that Northwestern has produced is Leroy Dues, the national junior shot put champion.

This year the athletic department, through the "N" club, made a significant innovation. A fund was established to send Northwestern athletes, of meritorious scholarship, thru college. The purpose was to avoid the dangers of professionalism that have appeared in several colleges in recent years. During Easter vacation an elaborate dance was held to establish the fund and it was nobly supported. It will become an annual event. Mr. Bert Mavis, Northwestern's athletic mentor, was largely responsible for its success.

This is the last year that Northwestern participates in state and mid-west athletic contests, following the policy of the Detroit High School League.

SWIMMING

The 1930 swimming team won the City and state championships but lost the mid-west meet unexpectedly by two points to Northern. The championships came after two years of terrific competition against Highland Park's national championship teams. Livingston Oliver broke the city record, for the hundred-yard free style, made by Craig of Northwestern in 1927. Chuck McKinley took the hundred-yard breast stroke in every meet but the Mid-West. Curtis took several firsts in the fifty-yard free style, beating out Ballard of Northern in the city meet. The diving was done by Earl Gormaine and Captain Richard Palm, who also swam in the winning relay. Great success was not apparent at first, but after a few duel meets the city championship loomed ahead. All the seven duel meets were won by top heavy scores. The captain elect for 1931 is Livingston Oliver, who swam on the varsity team in his freshman year.

FOOTBALL

With only five veterans back from last year, Coach Bishop moulded a team that that was to face three powerful state elevens in addition to a strong city schedule. The first five games were taken brilliantly. The sixth game, with Muskegon, ended in defeat. It seemed to take the morale from the team, since not another point was scored after this game. In the next game, with Central, came another defeat, this time entirely unexpected. Highland Park, the city champions, then defeated the Colts for the first time in football history. The state champions, Benton Harbor, completed the disaster. For the first time in six years since Sam Bishop took the helm, Northwestern failed to take the Metropolitan championship.

FOOTBALL

Captain Harold Sieloff suffered a broken collar bone in the second game of the season and was forced to miss the next five games. He starred in the four games he played and his management from the bench earned the position of all-city bench captains. Phil Schaupner played a stalwart game at tackle and was awarded the position on the all-state team. The other tackle position was filled by George Huber, who was placed on the all-city team. Gerald Barringer, at guard, likewise placed on the all-city eleven. The passing combination, Golinske to Ward, was responsible for many touchdowns.

TRACK

This year the Colt track team was probably the most balanced team ever put out by a Michigan high school. Every dual meet was taken by an overwhelming score. The city title was a walk-away, and the Mid-west was taken after a keen struggle with Froebel High, of Indiana. Five veterans formed the nucleus around which Coach Weaver built the team. The outstanding star of the year was Willis Ward, who set a new Interscholastic World High Jump Record of six feet, four and one-half inches. His ability in the hurdles made him high point man in both the City and Mid-West meets.

Captain Wesley Hurd, with three years of varsity experience, ran a consistently fast mile, close to the record time of 4:37 which he set last year. Raymond Roe upset all the critics when he won the city half mile, breaking the city record set by Thompson, of Northwestern, in 1929. Another record breaker was Noel

In the weight events, Jack Fundis had things all to himself. Earl Rheaume, Eugene Wilson, Herbert Thompson, Erwin Valmore and Norman Lawton were consistent point winners.

STARTING out the season with only two lettermen, Captain John Boden and Hugh Rae, Coach Carty built a well rounded outfit which finished in a tie for first for the West Side Honors with Southwestern and Highland Park, Southwestern later winning the West Side play-off. Nine players were awarded letters. They were: Boden, Lechner, Jacobs, Burgin, Gulvansky, Rae, Nelson, Rachlin and Stockmeyer. In the first game of the season the cagers defeated the Alumni, 17 to 10. In the next game the Colts lost to the City Championship Northern quintette by the score of 26 to 8 in a non-league game

The Colts opposed Western in their first league game and downed them 20 to 19. The Colts won another thriller the following week 21 to 20. The Red and Gray team finally broke their one-point jinks, downing Southwestern 23 to 21. Central was the next victim, to the tune of 28 to 25. Cooley was then taken into camp by 24 to 16. The Colts, however, here ran into tough luck, losing to Highland Park 18 to 21, which put them into a tie for first place. In the play-off the Colts drew Southwestern and dropped a heavy thriller, 15 to 14, to end their season. Leckner and Jacobs were honored by being selected for All City teams.

CROSS COUNTRY

Malcolm Weaver Coach

AFTER dominating city cross country for five consecutive years, the Colts came through this year to win the state championship. It is the first state cross country title to come to a Detroit team. The Colts took second place for four consecutive years, and in 1928 they were only four points behind the leaders. Wesley Hurd and Captain Bill Guy were the only letter winners from last year. The time trials were held on September 26, and Ennis Stafford proved to be the most promising of the new men. The three quadrangular meets were taken by large scores, with Wes Hurd starring. In the city meet Hurd took third, Guy eighth, Stafford and Rheaume also placed. Eastern, the nearest competitor, was beaten by twenty-five points. In the state meet, Northwestern nosed out Kalamazoo for the title. Hurd made a sensational comeback by beating Otto Pongrace, the national mile champion. The local meets were held on Bonnie Brook Golf course; the distance was close to two and one-half miles.

Cross country running has always served as foundation work for Northwestern's championships track teams. The distance running developes wind and endurance and form. Almost invariably the good cross country winners star in track. Coach Weaver has several men who give promise of upholding Northwesterns laurels next fall.

Among them are Raymond Roe, city, state and mid-west half mile champion and Thomas Lawton, a consistent point winner in the mile.

BASEBALL—1929

Sam Bishop
Coach

WITH four letter men from the preceding year Coach Sam Bishop organized a team that went through the baseball season with only one defeat. The Colts started off the season well by thoroughly trouncing Highland Park. Cliff Veach connected for a home run and Larry McClements from the mound only permitted five hits. They next took down Western. In this game McClements proved his ability at bat as well as pitching. With the bases full he hit a double bringing in three runs. He held them down to only four hits and made eight stick outs. Everybody made at least one run in a walk away game against Southwestern.

The Colts then met Cass for their first and only defeat. Marcus Greenlee who was responsible for many of their runs, was ill and the team suffered from this loss. Northwestern got five hits while McClements held Cass to a mere four, but two errors in one inning gave Cass the run by which she won the game. Veach hit his second home run of the season with a hard drive into left field.

Burgin hit a triple and Grenlee pinch-hitting in the last inning hit a double but died on base.

The next two games were won from Central and Cooley. Cass won the City Championship.

Coach Catherman's hockey team this year led the league during the first part of season. But a month of inactivity, with no ice to practice upon, put the team off form. The season ended with six victories, five defeats, and one tie. Don MacDonald placed on the all-city team.

The Colts captured the city skating title for the third consecutive year and gained the third leg on the H. Webber trophy in the annual meet at Belle Isle. Bud Keyes, holder of the city two twenty mark, won this event but did not equal his time of last year.

The prospects for having a championship tennis team this year are very promising. Last year the team won all its scheduled city matches and defeated Northern in a close contest for the city championship. John Hammer was responsible for many of the Colt's victories but was defeated in State competition. So far three matches have been won.

With Captain Russell Armstrong, Chas. McKinley, Fred Goetzke, Fred Ziegel and Tom Brown back from last year's team, Northwestern is expected to have the strongest golf team that has ever represented the Red and Gray. The Colts at the time of publication have met only one team, Western, whom they have defeated, 11 to 1.

At all athletic events the "N" Club endeavors to keep the sportsmanship of both sides up to a high standard.

The cheerleaders are as much a part of every athletic game and rally as the teams themselves. A Northwestern student cannot imagine an important event without the three Ihdia rubber cheerleaders, Kunkle, Gurman and McKnight leaping to his mind. Their enthusiasm is everywhere and their melodious voices move the rafters.

HOUSE SPORTS

THERE are ten houses in the school, five of them for boys and five for girls. Each house has approximately four hundred members who are taken alphabetically from the school enrollment. The rivalry is intense. Each house produces a football team, twelve basketball teams, a swimming team, two track teams and twelve baseball teams. The house with the highest average standing is given possession of the house plaque until the next year's season is completed. To gain permanent possession of the plaque it is rumoured that a house must win it sixteen times, so that very likely it will be the last half of the twentieth century before the plaque stops circulating. Of the four years that the plaque has been in existence, Roosevelt House has taken it twice, Marshal once and Pershing once. Incidentally, Roosevelt has taken five of the thirteen house football championships, and has taken second place the other eight years.

Two tie games were played, one with Lincoln; the other with Pershing. Lincoln House took second place, having suffered two defeats. The Roosevelt team received miniature footballs in addition to house letters.

This year each house had twelve basketball teams. After totaling all the points, Roosevelt's teams took first by a wide margin. The Lincoln House 12-A team won the elimination tournament held to determine the best of the sixty house teams. The new system was instituted by Mr. Maris to allow everyone to play basketball.

Marshall House won the swimming title this year with Lincoln only two points behind. Myron Rosenthal, of Wilson, was all around Champion. GIRLS ATHLETIC HISTORY

A HISTORY of girls' athletics in Northwestern High School includes girls who have made names both for themselves, their teams and their school. No real history was made until 1919 when the girls placed second in city swimming. On this team swam Margaret Woodbridge, who covered the forty-yard backstroke event in thirty seconds, for a world's record. Also in 1919 Jane Austen House won the first girls' intramural basketball title.

In 1920 and 1921 the girls swimming and basketball teams finished in the runners-up positions for the city title. It was also in 1921 that the first interhouse swimming meet was run off. Joan of Arc easily outclassed the rest of the field in this meet. Hockey was first started as a varsity sport in 1923, the Coltettes finishing in second place. In 1924 we find that Margaret Eamon, than a ninth grader, was stareing for the hockey team. She later turned out to be one of the best girl athletes that Northwestern has produced. In 1925, the G. A. A. was first organized, under the sponsorship of Miss Lampkin.

Miss Huffman

During the years 1926-29 Northwestern was favored with three sets of sisters; the Felske's, the Eamon's, and the Derby's. All of these girls were responsible for putting the girls' athletics where they now stand. During the years that they attended school, the girls' athletic teams that they played on had a better showing than at any time in Northwestern's history.

In 1926 we find Margaret Eamon president of the G. A. A. She was also a member of the basketball and hockey teams. Her sister Emily was on the hockey team while both of them starred for the tennis team. Hilda Felske was on the swimming, basketball, and hockey teams. In 1927, Margaret was captain of the hockey team, while her sister was captain of the basketball team.

Both Marietta and Virginia Derby were on the hockey, track and tennis teams while Virginia was also on the basketball, and golf teams. Virginia was captain of the tennis team. Dorothy Felske was on the swimming team and was high po nt scorer of the city meet. The swimming team finished in a tie for first place honors, the first championship the swimming team had ever won.

In 1928, we again find Virginia and Marietta Derby playing hockey, basketball, track and tennis, and also engaged on the skating team. Marietta was chosen captain-elect for hockey. She was also captain of the track team. Virginia was captain of the tennis team again and was also chosen captain-elect for basketball. During this year we find the girls winning the city skating and track championships. Also Esther Challove winning the City Interscholastic Tennis Title. The Coltettes were also runners-up for the city title in basketball, hockey and swimming, thus completing one of the best years in their history. Dorothy Felske was on the hockey and swimming teams again while Emily Eamon was on the hockey team in her last semester here.

In 1929 the girls won the city hockey title. The girls' skating team retained their city championship and the girls' golf team won the city champion- ship only to lose it because they had used an ineligible player. The swimming team was again runner-up to Highland Park for the city title.

GIRL'S SCHOOL HOCKEY

WITH the coming of the hockey season, Northwestern cherished the ambition to retain the championship cup. After much hard practice under the able guidance of Miss Hardy, and later of Miss Watson, the team advanced with great strides toward a victorious season. The games started in the latter part of September and continued throughout October and November. The Coltettes won all games, the one with Highland Park proving the most spectacular of the season. Due to exceptional team work, the girls won West-Side championship, defeating Southwestern 3-0. Then came the final clash with Hamtramck. Both teams showed good defensive and offensive fighting in this speedy combat, but in the end, the Maroon and White defeated the Red and Gray by a score of 2-0.

Bessie MacCracken who acted as captain last fall, has also been chosen as captain for the team this year. The girls comprising the team in the fall were: Muir Williams, Eileen Wood, Mahala Cornwall, Viola Jones, Bessie MacCracken, Josephine Lake, Lorena Renshaw, Margaret Woickham, Lretta Gluver, Irene Sarey, Marjorie Hedgecock and Janet Hawke.

Northwestern also placed two girls on the all-city team. These were: Bessie MacCracken and Josephine Lake. Those receiving honorable mention were: Eileen Wood, Viola Jones and Muir Williams.

SCHOOL SWIMMING

THE Coltette swimmers ended their successful season by placing second in the City Meet. There were few veterans back this year, so it was practically a new team that took to the water in the first meet. Many new swimmers, who now rank among the best, have been developed.

The Coltettes initiated the season by defeating Northern, who has always been a formidable foe. Throughout the remainder of the season, the Northwestern aggregation was such that the mermaids succeeded in adding successive victories. However, the dual meet with Highland Park gave quite a set-back to the Northwestern prospects of gaining the City Title.

Eileen Wood, backstroke star, proved of exceptional value to the team, but due to graduation, was able to take part in only two dual meets. During this short time, however, she acquired enough points for a school letter.

The City Title fell to Highland Park, while Northwestern received a close second. The diving proved to be extremely exciting. Captain Ardis Gibson, defending champion, showed her versatility in winning this event, defeating Mary Gilmour of Highland Park. Others who starred were: Jane Campbell, Jane MacDonald, Emma Griksheit, Ethel Smith, and Helen Curtis.

The successful season of the mermaids is due to the hard practice on the part of the girls, the excellent leadership of Ardis Gibson, and the remarkable coaching of Mrs. Cheney.

SCHOOL BASKETBALL

THE girls' basketball team met with very moderate success this year as far as winning games goes, for it won only two contests out of a schedule of six. However, the season was a success when the development of players is considered. Viola Jones, Janet Hawke, Edora Morton, Louise Simms and Lillian McLaren were among the outstanding stars. Much new and promising material was uncovered, and although many players will be lost through graduation, high hopes are entertained for the coming season. The Red and Gray sextette was not an aggregation of individual stars but rather a squad which relied on team play.

After many weeks of grilling practice, the girls started the season by trouncing Redford. Throughout this game, teamwork and speedy passes played a great part and resulted in leading the Red and Gray to victory. Next they encountered Commerce and succeeded in greatly outplaying these opponents.

The coaching was under the skilled guidance of Miss Mildred E. Hardy, herself a former star. She is greatly responsible for the splendid display of sportsmanship that was maintained throughout the entire season.

Towards the end of the season, the team suffered the loss of a valuable player, Muir Williams. She was injured early in the season and was unable to take part in the last games.

Many girls were winners of the school "N" award. These were: Janet Hawke, captain; Viola Jones, Bessie MacCracken, Edora Morton, Lillian McLaren, Margaret Murray, Loretta Glover, Martha Higden, Lonetta Kuhn and Louise Simms. Those receiving the reserve letters were: Muir Williams and Dorothy Green.

GIRLS' SCHOOL GOLF

CITY CHAMPIONS

Although golf has just recently been initiated into the school sport program, it has proved to be most popular among the many participants. Fourteen girls, seven of them veterans, comprised the team for this year. The city meet was held at Rackham Course, October 5. The Coltettes carried off the championship with many points to spare. This was a bit unexpected, since they had succeeded in winning but one of their dual meets. Last year, because of the ineligibility of one of the players, they were forced to forfeit their title; but now Northwestern has acquired the cup. The low scorers on the team were Jeanne Willson and Ellen Anne Murray. Jeanne placed fourth among individual scorers in the city meet. Eleven of the girls who went out for golf this year were winners of the scarlet "N." They are: Ellen Anne Murray, Marion Clark, Beth Braconer, Jeanne, Willson, Gerd Gamborg, Mary Porter, Janet Runyeon, Josephine Talbot, Haziel Samuel Gladys Panton and Margaret Mary Love, captain. The other players who helped to win honors are: Amy Johnston, Virginia Kothe, Bettina Rightmire and Ethel Nikrant. Due to the efforts of Miss Prudentia C. Huffman, the coach, golf has been most successful this year. Not only have the results of school golf been encouraging, but a start has been made toward house tournaments.

GIRLS' SCHOOL SKATING

CITY CHAMPIONS

This year has again been a victorious one for our school skaters. Under the coaching of Miss Huffman, our girls captured the City Championship cup for the third successive year. The relay team, comprised of Emma Grikscheit, Viola Jones, Mary Oak and Margaret White, placed first in the final meet. However, the meet was decided by Viola Jones and Emma Griksheit, who won second and third places for fancy skating. The rest of the squad consisted of Ann Dale, Hazel Johnson, Erna Lysett and Grace Broquet, who should be complimented for the faithful way in which they turned out in the sub-zero weather. Praise is also due to Miss Huffman, who has coached the girls so well, that they carried off the cup for three consecutive seasons.

GIRLS' SCHOOL TENNIS

The call for prospects for this year's tennis team was answered by about twenty girls. Through a process of elimination, the following eleven were chosen to represent the Red and Gray: Evelyn Gurman, Suzanne Shenk, Janet Hawke, Bonnie Harris, Virginia Kothe, Beth Braconier, Dorothy Green, Margaret Thiele, Bessie McCracken, Pearl Finkman and Evangeline Johnson. Although very few veterans are back this season, the girls are practising hard and are showing consistent racket-wielding. Consequently, they are looking forward to a victorious season. A practice match was held with Cooley (who had a tennis team for the first time this year) and the Coltettes succeeded in winning all but one match. Other matches have been scheduled with Western, Southwestern and Redford. The team, this year, is being coached by Miss Watson. She promises to be an excellent coach and hopes to bring the girls to the top in the ensuing season.

HOUSE SPORTS

Hockey

House hockey has now become a very lively sport. Miss Hardy's untiring work and encouragement to the teams individually has resulted in an improvement among them. The intra-mural tournaments were a great success. The games were played on Ferry Field. The competing teams were well matched in every case, making the outcome doubtful and interesting to the spectators. Defensive and offensive work was superior to that of teams of previous years. As a whole, the standard of hockey, as revealed in these games, has been noticeably higher than in the past years. The fall season of hockey was ended in grand style. Betsy Ross proved the conqueror. Good team work, which is essential, helped Betsy Ross girls accomplish their aim, that of winning the cup. The girls playing on this team were: G. Meyers, captain; L. Kuhn, R. Katrieb, M. Jenkin, E. Johnson, M Jacobs, M. Michniewicz, J. McKay, A. McCormich, F. Mitchell and F. Jewell.

Basketball

With every house having extremely large turn-outs this year, the intra-mural basketball season was one of the most successful and interesting of all time. Many of the teams were strong, but Jane Austen, with five of last year's championship team back, was tied with Betsy Ross for the title. The final game was of intense interest, for the score was even throughout. In the last quarter, the Jane Austenites gave a final spurt and won the game by the same score as that of last year—20-17. The girls who comprised the winning team were: Ethel Smith, captain; Eileen Wood, Louise Simms, Fannie Wexler, Betty Tinsley, Bertha Waggenheim and Margaret Teichman.

This was not the end of Jane Austen's honors for she succeeded in having three of her girls placed on the All-House team. They are: Ethel Smith, who was chosen captain, Eileen Wood, and Louise Simms. The remainder of this team consisted of Dorothy Green, Mahala Cornwall and Loretta Kuhn.

Basketball has been gaining more and more popularity and now looms as the most inviting field for house athletes.

Swimming

The girls participating in this sport greatly outnumbered the turn-outs in previous years. Under the able guidance of the school team, house swimming was made very exciting and lively. Much future school material was developed from these participants. Those placing the highest in the preliminaries qualified for the finals. In this meet, Mt. Vernon girls piled up the greatest number of points and incidentally became the permanent possessor of the cup. Joan of Arc was second and Jane Austen came third. The girls who were most outstanding are: Dorothy Scott, Marie Tingstead, Isabel Witter, Betty Beyer, Mary Porter, Doreen Collins, Grace Broquet, Isabella Caller, Phyllis Black, Helen Shearer and Mary Montgomery.

Farewell Northwestern

(As a Senior would say it)

By Anne Campbell

When lads no longer practice on the green
And sunny meadow we call Ferry Field;
When your familiar walls no longer lean
Above us lovingly, our hope and shield,
We will remember you, Northwestern.

When "Meet me at the Cannon" sounds no more
In youthful ears; when we no longer swing
Across the campus for the fun in store,
The laughter, and the girls' blithe gossiping,
We will remember you, Northwestern.

When medals, plaques, and banners lose their thrill
And, in the attic, trophies gather rust;
When "red and gray" upon the last long hill
Mean autumn colors soon to trail in dust,
We will remember you, Northwestern.

When "Silver Bell" and "Sleepy Hollow Tune"
Are echoes faintly heard through piled up years;
When we forget the classmates of this June
And the good-byes we could not say for tears,
We will remember you, Northwestern.

When the bronze tablet with our heroes' names
Cannot be read for Time's corroding hand;
When boys no longer linger to play games
Upon the spot where now your loved walls stand,
We will remember you, Northwestern.

Fostering Mother, you are more than roof
And brick and stone, and windows to the sun!
Kindler of fires in youthful hearts, the proof
That Galahads still ride, and bays are won,
Farewell! . . . Remember us, Northwestern!

HIGHLIGHTS OF 1930

FEBRUARY: There is a quaint custom in this school of singing each morning in the auditorium such songs as "Roses Are Shining In Picardy"; and it is our shameful duty to report that Lincoln House was severely reprimanded for harmonizing too artistically yesterday morning. But Northwestern is a musical school, for at all hours of the day special arrangements of popular songs may be heard coming from the boys' locker room. All this month they have been trying to sell us Nor'-westers, after getting us out of classes for club pictures. The camera balked at snapping the Grey Chapter of the Hi-Y.

MARCH: Rudy Vallee's Maine Stein Song is being sung continually by the repeal and modification elements around school. Scandals are rife, for John Hammer was seen at the tenth grade dance. Just today there was a fire drill while we were having an economics test. Strangely enough, everybody came back in and got A's. Yesterday the Odds & Ends surprised the school by coming out this month. The poetry in the Colt is no worse than usual.

APRIL: Those blue polo shirts with orange ties, how they brighten up these dull April days. But where have the girls' ankle socks disappeared? This is truly a month of great happenings, for on one night the opera "Serenade" was presented and the debating team won the State semi-finals. Lo and behold! Wilson House won the intramural debating trophy from a girls' house—and the Wilson athletes blushed. Oh, cruel fate! Why makest it thou to rain during Easter vacation?

MAY: It was made known to us today that we have futures before us; but let us forget about futures. There are ball games to attend to, and occasional interviews with grade room principals who remind us that it is very late in one's career to let one's marks drop. And every day a person must wait hours to achieve a tennis court. Lo, again, the polo shirts have turned to silk and Clifford Wolfe has become a matinee idol in "What Ann Brought Home."

JUNE: This is the last opportunity to use up second hand irregularity permits, for these are hectic days. The good old R. O. T. C. today brought home several trophies, more or less, and they may be pawned for much ready cash. And the good old Odds and Ends received an All-American rating. The heat is terrific. Christmas and Easter clothes are being dragged out for the "prom." Sentiment flows right and left as Nor'westers are proffered for autographs. It is very nice to linger in the halls. Can it be true that soon the portals will close against us forever?

1930?—Why, that was the year I graduated.

HIGHLIGHTS of 1930

SEPTEMBER. It is the day after Labor Day, but from now on every day will be labor day. The teachers have regained their strength during vacations in Europe and they are starting out by cracking grim jokes in class. That sunburn still itches and it is torture to wear a tie. Already studies are interfering with football. What we need is a good rest and plenty of chocolate sodas.

OCTOBER: The teachers seem to be enjoying school very much, but it is October, and one can't study in October. From afar comes the sounds of fiendish laughter from club initiations. There is much cause for rejoicing, because this is the Edison Jubilee and we have a one day-vacation. Yesterday there was a freshman mixer, and Harold Sieloff came to school with a tie and a clean face. The Parent-Teacher's Association is studying child problems. We must refer to it on tomorrow's math assignment.

NOVEMBER: By this time we are wearing overcoats at the football games, and now and then somebody's melodious voice arises from a bearskin or raccoon coat, —or sadly enough—rabbit. At the Olympia the "Miracle" is being presented and Charles Rogers was so severely frightened that he stopped talking. Now the senior class is becoming serious and its committees are infesting the school. In a mock election Charles Bowles was elected Mayor of Detroit, while in more important circles Charles Courville became president of the January class. The mid-semesters loom. No school on Thanksgiving Day.

DECEMBER: One recovers but slowly from the mid-semesters and one can hope but feebly for the Yuletide and vacation. The publications stir one's pulse a trifle by being noted the best combination in the state, but tennis can no longer be played, there is, as yet, no skating, and football is past. One gazes drearily at leaden skies, and since there is nothing better to do, studies. One's delicate nerves are wracked by musical programs in the auditorium. George Huber, it is rumored, studied all night on New Year's Eve.

JANUARY: Wes Hurd today wrung tears from the audience of a basketball rally and Mushy Gurman gave the audience a big laugh by showing his face. Already the debating team is showing great powers of persuasion. But has anybody noticed Belva Fritch, the people's choice, or Don Wille, Northwestern's most generous spender? Oh, those new long dresses! What curves thereof! How they flare in the wind!

The Society For the Prevention of Homework, formerly the Anti-Vice Association, is made up of all the 15 semester men of Northwestern. The president of the club assigns one member to do his homework each day.
